Dennis Sabo is an internationally award-winning photographer specializing in contemporary fine art abstract, landscape, and seascape photography.

His award-winning work has appeared in various publications and institutions. He was the featured story: “The Earth World – Dennis Sabo – A Master of Lens, Light, Color and Art” in the Portfolio May 2018, Naples, Florida magazine and his photographic artwork ‘Okavango Twilight’ was used as the cover art for that Portfolio magazine.

His art has also been featured in NOVA, Blue Planet, PBS, National Geographic, Canon U.S.A, and the Anthology of Appalachian Photographers. Dennis Sabo Photography was recently juried into the prestigious, inaugural 2024 International Visionary Awards, Canada, for his story collection, “A Pond Kaleidoscope” based on the Tarn marshes in the Acadia National Park, Maine. Dennis also received the 2020 “Award of Excellence” Healing Power of Art from Manhattan Art International, New York, NY.

Dennis's mastery goes beyond the visual—it resonates with nature lovers on an emotional level. His photographic creations become a bridge between the viewer's emotions and the essence of his captured nature moments. Color and Light while at the forefront of his photography is not his only conscious art play. Much of his nature photography is a microcosm, a photographic story that transcends geography regardless of where the collector lives.

Dennis's fine art has been included in solo and group gallery exhibitions, commercial installations and private home collections throughout the United States and internationally.
